

FCC Commissioners
The Federal Communications Commission RE: Docket 04-435
445 12th Street, SW
Washington, DC 20554

Dear FCC Commissioners ,

I am writing to urge you not to relax the restrictions on the use of cell phones on airplanes in flight.

I am concerned that cell phone use may interfere with navigational instruments, making air travel less safe. Further, allowing the use of cell phones in the cabin will make what is already often an unpleasant experience a true nightmare.

There is nothing more annoying than having to listen to people on their cell phones and to be truly a captive audience, as there is no possibility of escaping the incessant yammering of inconsiderate cell phone users on a plane. This will undoubtedly increase tension among passengers; in addition, it will compromise flight attendants' ability to maintain order in an emergency. Further, cell phone use could also enable terrorists to coordinate a plan of action more effectively.

Please leave the current rules in effect. Allowing cell phone use on planes is a terrible idea.

Thank you for your attention.

Sincerely,

Amy Willis
